

"There's no place like home. There's no place like home." Another GD gathering where the tornado sirens go off. I guess if you're going to be swept away by a tornado, it's good to at least have a good buzz on while it's happening, right? I guess that way when the 2x4 nails through your skull, it won't hurt so bad. Maybe next time you guys should go into the basement, ya think?

Thanks to Lisa for hosting this week. It was a lot of fun. The food was great, and it was a pleasure to welcome some new faces. Sorry we had to leave early, but when the sirens started going off Cam started freaking out, so we thought it best just to head home rather than subject you all to his frantic fit.

Don't forget that this is Vince and Connie's moving weekend, so start lifting those weights now to get in shape. Also, Carole is having a multi-purpose party on Saturday, June 5th, so if you are able, be sure to show up. I hear Melody will be there, so I'm getting my boxing gloves dusted off.

We'll see you all this Friday at Red's!

Quote of the Week:

Connie -- "Did you know that I did adult movies when I was in college? It was called Connie C*@T Licker."
